Emerging Immigration Scholars Workshop Session 3: Enforcement as Immigration Policy

Friday, February 12, 2021 via Zoom from 12PM - 2PM (PST)

The Center for the Study of International Migration (UCLA) and the Center for Comparative Immigration Studies (UCSD) invite you to attend the “Emerging Immigration Scholars” workshops, scheduled every other Friday from 12-2 PM PST, starting on January 15 and continuing until March 12. The workshops seek to create an interdisciplinary space for junior immigration scholars to share drafts of their research and writing projects and elicit feedback from one another as well as the community of migration scholars throughout the UC system. The workshops are open to the public. Workshop sessions will feature brief presentations by authors followed by comments, segueing quickly to discussion.

Presenters:

Chloe East, Assistant Professor, Department of Economics, University of Colorado, Denver, "Unintended Consequences of Immigration Enforcement: Household Services and High-Skilled Women's Work"

Pedro Gerson, Visiting Assistant Professor, School of Law, Louisiana State University, "Embracing Crimmigration To Curtail Immigration Detention"

David Hausman, Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Department of Political Science, Stanford University, "President Trump and Immigration Law"

Emily Pope-Obeda, Assistant Professor, Department of History, Lehigh University, "Anti-Blackness and the Immigration Bureaucracy: Racial Policing and Post-Entry Expulsion in Early Twentieth Century America"

Carolina Valdivia, UC President's Postdoctoral Fellow, Department of Sociology, University of California, Los Angeles, "'I'll Be Risking Myself Just to Get an Education': How Immigration Enforcement at the Local Level Affects Immigrant Students' Educational Experiences"

Commentators:

Roger Waldinger, Distinguished Professor, Department of Sociology, University of California, Los Angeles

Wayne A. Cornelius, Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Political Science, University of California, San Diego

Registration is required to receive access to the papers for each session. The link and password will be included on your registration confirmation from Zoom. Papers will be available via the shared box folder approximately 10 days before each session.
