

CCIS SEMINAR SERIES PRESENTS:

Social Science and Legal Practice: Translating Migration & Refugee Research

Monday, May 14th, 2018 | 12:00PM - 1:30PM

ERC Conference Room 115

Asher Hirsch

Senior Policy Officer, Refugee Council of Australia

Mitra Ebadolahi

Border Litigation Project Staff Attorney, ACLU of San Diego and Imperial Counties

David Shirk

Director, Master's Program in International Relations and Associate Professor, Political Science and International Relations

This panel brings together three experts offering different perspectives on the promises and perils of interactions between social scientists and legal practitioners. How can the gap between academic research and legal practice around immigration and refugee issues be bridged? Panelists will discuss successful examples of translational research and where more research is needed.

For more information please call 858-822-4447 or email aminvielle@ucsd.edu